

Doepke REACH UK Declaration

UK REACH – Doepke UK Ltd as a supplier of electrical and electronic components is a down-stream user in that we distribute finished products. These products are not classified as substances or chemicals requiring registration. Under normal and reasonably foreseeable use there should be no substance released. For disposal recycling follow the current UK Regulations relating to components and sub-assemblies; refer to the instruction sheet supplied with the component for additional information.

For specific product references, we can provide additional information from our suppliers (all UK or EU based), or by visiting their websites where they are required by UK or EU Law to make available on request by reference, information relating to their products.
